He has no idea as to the age of the saddle.
Since our last week's issue the post-office content in Clay county has been on itself several places, but it has about settled back now to the same old level. Frank Jones, of color, became a candidate at the first of last week and nothing has been heard of him since. He would be a good fellow for a while, but he drew off on Saturday and things are moving now just as of yore.

Miss Ester May Tucker, 22 years of age, daughter of John Tucker, was severely burned last week last. She was standing by the fire when her dress caught, and she was when she was dressed. Her father caught her and throwing her on a bed, wrapped up quickly and her mother the fire. It was this quick and efficient work that saved her life.

Henry Schank, Sr., a prominent and well-to-do farmer residing on Bear Creek near Rome, Ind., was suddenly taken ill last Monday of pneumonia and died Wednesday evening at 2 o'clock. Mr. Schank was years old and had attended church with his family at Rome Sunday, appearing to be in perfect health. Mr. Michael Hansen and son, Charles, Rev. Thomson and daughter, Miss Harriet, of this city, who are relatives of Mr. Schank, went Thursday to attend his funeral, which occurred Friday. Mr. Schank was one of the best farmers in Perry county. His estate is valued at $200,000.

W. B. Tate & Co. write the following: Receipts this week have been light, only 1,410 hogsheads, out of which a large per cent has been dark. Offerings for the week amounted to 6,510 hogsheads, 811 of which were rejected. Rejections have been comparatively light, showing that sales all around have been very satisfactory. The market is very strong on all grades of burley except in the low end. Red flint is two cents higher than December market. Short, heavy bodied tough tobacco and red tips are higher than they have been since last February. The future of the market looks more encouraging than for sometime.

There was a coffee war on at Irvington last week. The sugar trust wasn't in it a little bit. We don't know what brought it on, but we do know that coffee was cheaper for one day at least than it has ever been in this country before. Just think of a package of Arbuckle for 5c, and 1c, and down to 25c. Vile. Time and Brown got to cutting on coffee just as merchants do sometimes. It first started at 16 cts. and from that it kept on going down, down, down, till the market opened and then the war ended. It was a war in which the people took great interest. They enjoyed it, and many a poor fellow had coffee for supper that night. It isn't that it was for a long time. Mr. Vittice says it was the best advertisement he has had since he has been in Irvington.

Those who join the circle and begin this year will be the class to graduate in four years—class 1900. Its going to be the banner club, and the one to round out this glorious century of the world.

Della Fox's Jewels
Those who have seen Della Fox as Charlotte in "The Little Trooper" will remember the gorgeous jewels in which she arrays herself when she shines as a veritable star show. Her favorite stone is the lilac-colored opal, and in her birth stone, too, for she first saw the light in the month of October. Most of her rings, and she has a score, have opals in them. She has numerous other gems, including a pair of earrings for one of her hands. She has a diamond ring in each hand and a diamond bracelet on her right arm. One of the loveliest of her ornaments is a diamond necklace, composed of several large stones and smaller ones, and when the calcium light is thrown on the glittering little stones she fairly scintillates with brightness. Della's little necklaces there is to be seen upon Charlotte's bodice a dagger studded with diamonds, a stick of five jeweled birds, several butterflies set with rubies, diamonds, opals and small stones; an opal star surrounded with two rows of large diamonds; an opal heart similarly framed; a subarsub of diamonds, two large diamond crescents, a star of the large diamonds, a star and a crown of diamonds mounted by pins. That Miss Fox must possess an unusual amount of ingenuity goes without saying. It is certain that she has a very large quantity of skill to arrange such a jewelry shop tastefully on one small person at one time.—The Critic.

The local reporter is indebted to one of our friends for the following interesting and elegant young ladies for the society news that appears in this issue.

PLAQUE IN INDIA.

IT IS FAR WORSE THAN EVER HERE—TODAY REPORTED.

Synopsis of Great Britain is Anxious. Appeals sent to America. Donations for the sufferers. With the plague in India—Great Britain—Great Britain.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—For some time past everything has pointed to the fact that India is fast becoming a plague spot. The plague is now in the most appalling calamity since the British occupation. The spread of the plague came almost with dramatic suddenness on the heels of the famine and created throughout Europe a feeling of the greatest alarm. Up to the present the two main dangers have been confined to separate areas, but it is extremely probable that the plague will ere long reach the famine districts, owing to the impossibility of preventing the migration of the pest-stricken natives, and should it turn forward to terrible mortality, as the plague germs will find fruitful soil in the emaciated natives.

The Indian government seems hardly to have foreseen such a gigantic outbreak, and taking as that of relieving the necessities of over 50,000,000 of people, and its ready acquiescence in the proposition to appeal to private charity indicates that it now realizes the insufficiency of its armament.

The sympathy of Great Britain is now thoroughly aroused, and the relief fund has been started in all the chief towns. The Manchester fund has already received $450,000, and it is hoped that the total of the fund will reach at least $2,500,000, which was the amount subscribed for the relief of the sufferers of the last famine.

The newspaper, however, urge that some more drastic measure be adopted, and one of the weekly reviews has called for parliament vote a big grant for India to be used for the purpose of relieving the famine. A special committee has been appointed to consider the matter, and it is hoped that the total of the fund will reach at least $2,500,000, which was the amount subscribed for the relief of the sufferers of the last famine.

FOUND DEAD IN THE FIELD.
Mysterious Murder of Frank Gladson Near Harpersburg.

DEFANCE, O., Jan. 18.—Frank Gladson, a young man residing east of this place, was murdered in a mysterious manner Saturday morning by an unknown assassin. Gladson was a farmer near Harpersburg, about 12 miles east of this city. He was working alone in a field leading a cornfield when the crime was committed. A neighbor who drove past saw Gladson lying on his face near the wagon. He carried the unconscious man to the house, where he was discovered that a bullet had entered his back just between the shoulder blades. Gladson died without regaining consciousness.

An examination of the ground where Gladson lay showed that some one had walked across the field near to where he stood, then turned and retraced his steps to the house. The official report of the murdered man can assign no cause for the crime.
